Norwegian Citizen Panel 2016

Overview

Identification	NMP-16-2

Abstract
The Norwegian Citizen Panel is a platform for internet surveys of public opinion in important areas of society and politics in Norway. Participants are randomly recruited from the Norwegian population register, and they are encouraged to participate over time. The panel was fielded for the first time the fall of 2013 and the survey is carried out twice a year. The University of Bergen owns and is responsible for the Citizen panel. The company Ideas 2 Evidence recruits respondents, produces the survey, and provides documentation of the data. Data is stored and shared by the Norwegian Social Science Data services (NSD). The Norwegian Citizen Panel welcomes research proposals for survey content. More information about calls and other updates is available at www.medborger.uib.no <http://www.medborger.uib.no>

Sampling

Sampling Procedure
Members of the Norwegian Citizen Panel have been recruited in two waves, wave 1 and wave 3. In wave 1 4.870 panel members were recruited (see documentation from wave 1). In wave 3 5.623 members were recruited. Prior to wave 7 the Norwegian Citizen Panel had 10,179 members.
The sampling procedure of wave and wave 1 is identical. 25 000 individuals over the age of 18 were randomly drawn from the Norwegian National Population Registry. The extracted data was a) last name, b) first name, c) address, d) gender, and e) age. The sample excluded people with no current home address in Norway.

Weighting
To compensate for the observed bias, a set of weights has been calculated. The weights equal the relation between a given strata in the population and the total population, divided by the relation between a given strata in the net sample and the total net sample. This procedure returns values around 1, but above 0. Respondents who are underrepresented will receive a weight above 1 and respondents who are overrepresented a weight below 1. The weights of the different stratums are listed in the documentation report (table 8 in the appendix).
When calculating the weights, the information regarding the respondent's geographical location, gender and age are based on registry data. These attributes were included in the sample file we received from the Norwegian Population

Register. Information regarding the level of education is provided by the respondents when answering the questionnaire. Approximately 9 percent of the net sample did not answer this question. Because of this, two different weights have been calculated:

- Weight 1 based on demographic variables (age, gender and geography)
- Weight 2 combining the demographic variables with education. Respondents with missing data on the education variable are only weighted on demography (the education component of the weight is set to 1 in these cases).

When applied, both weights will provide a weighted N equal to the number of cases in the dataset.

We will strongly recommend using weight 2 in any statistical analysis, as this weight provides the most accurate compensation for the various sources of bias in the net sample.

Data Collection

Data Collection Mode	The survey is based on a online questionnaire. Existing members receives e-mail invitations asking for their participation in the current wave. New panel members were recruited in multiple steps. First, letters were sent to everyone in the sample. The letters contained the following information: a) a description of the project, b) the Citizen Panel's policy on privacy and measures taken to protect the anonymity of the participants, c) the time-frame of the project, d) the participants' rights to opt of the panel at any time in the future, e) contact information for the people responsible for the project, f) a unique log-in id and the web address to the panel's web site and g) the estimated time required to complete the survey (20 minutes). Prosepective respondents in the sample that did not register as a panel member after a certain time period recieved a reminder sent as a post card In the second recruitment round all respondents that had not accessed or completed the survey after receiving both a letter and a post card were sent a reminder to their mobile phones (depending on whether or not they were registered with a phone number in the Population Register). A randomly drawn subset of the gross sample were also contacted via a telephone call.

Literal question	Do you think that the hospital acts reasonably or unreasonably in this example: Imagine a patient undergoing hospital treatment for an illness that one can live with, but where there is a risk of significant deterioration over time. The patient has heard of new treatment abroad, and wonders why the hospital does not offer w02_hp12c: Reasonable: Patient with livable disease hear about a treatment abroad, but professional expertise and patient organizations determines that it will not be offered this treatment. The reason is that the country's foremost professional expertise in consultation with patient organization representatives have thoroughly assessed the treatment and agreed that it will not be offered. The patient is informed of this and is not offered treatment. I think the hospital acted...

w03_u3_pad311_1c2b3a: Group deciding over Oil fund spending: One hundred appointed experts, diversified ::: Against personal wishes

Information	[Type= discrete] [Format=numeric] [Range= 1-5] [Missing=*]
Statistics [NW/ W]	[Valid=8515 /-] [Invalid=2127 /-]
Pre-question	We would like you to consider this scenario: A political decision is to be made about how some of the money in the Oil fund will be used. This decision is made by a group of one hundred people that the authorities consider to be experts in the area. The group does reflect the Norwegian population in terms of age composition, education, gender, place of residence, sexual orientation, ethnic background, work experience and religion. The decision that was reached goes against your wishes.

w03_u3_pad312_1f2b: 5000 kr from Norwegian Citizen Panel, as compensation: To Doctors without borders or random participant, can affect outcome, is among 3 participants

Information	[Type= discrete] [Format=numeric] [Range= 1-3] [Missing=*]
Statistics [NW/ W]	[Valid=8515 /-] [Invalid=2127 /-]
Literal question	Imagine the scenario that participants in the Norwegian Citizen Panel have NOK 5,000 available as compensation for participating. This money will either be raffled off as a gift card to one of the participants in the Norwegian Citizen Panel, or will be donated to the charity Doctors without borders. You have the opportunity to influence this decision, and you are one of three selected respondents who get to vote on how the money is to be used. What do you prefer?
Interviewer's instructions	[Spurt dersom U=3 og ran16=12. Respondenter rekruttert i runde 1 som har blitt eksponert for w01_DT14 eller w01_DT15, blir ikke spurt dette spørsmålet]
